

PRESS RELEASE

Scientology back in hands of re-incarnated founder under new trademark as 'Spiritologie'

*David Miscavige fell from grace, Flag
Landbase moved to Birega Haus in Germany*

The source of scientology - the being who originated the subject - took back his position. In the Church of Scientology this greatly venerated being is generally referred to as SOURCE.

The SOURCE inhabiting the body of a German actor and musician Andreas Buttler approached the church in the last week – as was customary through a number of messengers - and offered David Miscavige of the Religious Technology Center the role of communicating with and acknowledging SOURCE.

However as it developed Miscavige had to admit to having made a few blunders scientologically speaking, violating Hubbards basic discoveries and these were ruthlessly pointed out and condemned by SOURCE.

An attempt was made to issue corrections to Tom Cruise who also violated these principles:

“In regards to your fight against the Psychiatric and Medical Establishment, such a fighting stance in the media constitutes a ‘counter-create’ and violates the reality of people such as Brooke Shields. I need to correct you on a basic principle of Scientology. From Source Scientology principles as in Hubbards book ‘Fundamentals of Thought’.

After some attempts in 2004 to contact church management, which met with disbelief and scientologists threatening him with police. Andreas Buttler worked quietly behind the scenes to further develop, improve and simplify the subject, he only published his textbook Spiritologie on 9th of May last year.

He appears to have done so quite successfully and attesting to that is Caspar de Rijk a former director of the first Scientology Organization in the Netherlands who later became an expert Class IX auditor and was over 25 years a member of the Sea Organization. Caspar currently in charge of the new Flag Landbase at Birega Haus Germany left the church in 1997.

He appeared on Dutch national TV – issuing a 95 Theses Reformation Appeal posting on church doors of the Church of Scientology Amsterdam.

Beings who had been using this new and highly confidential technology had assumed that the subject was meant to be fully divorced from scientology. They were unpleasantly surprised last week by the SOURCE causing all ‘spiritologie websites’ and the book to disappear overnight.

The next thing was that these people and appeal was made in the socalled Freezone as well to all return to the Scientology Organizations and talk to them as friends and get back in good standing by confessing any misdoings – an amnesty was issued for these scientologists and others propelling them towards the churches in Europe and some in Canada.

All of this was orchestrated by the SOURCE to cause the scientologists to open their eyes and wake them up by making them get in communication with the environment and other people around them in a friendly manner. As it was pointed out that many were simply making enemies by their attitudes and arbitrary rules as is documented quite extensively on the internet.

De Rijk already months ago had suggested that Miscavige send out missions to restore soured family relationships.

Asked about the new technology he said it is compact, easy and simple and as the source said it is not even needed. As aware spiritual beings as are now found everywhere. It is only available to those who reach for it on their own determination.

What is also new is that there are no fixed charges for the confidential rundowns. The eligible being only signifies agreement in a timeless Secret Spiritual Contract.

Reading the book would be enough, add a dosis of enthusiasm to sit down and apply the techniques with or without an electronic gadget and one is on the way to full spiritual rehabilitation.

About a hundred people have been actively using this technology and were shocked when they were told to go to the Scientology Churches to continue their services as the Case supervisor who was their guide was all of a sudden going to move back to the Scientology Sea

Organization and as they were told was going to administer the new tech from there.

This would have happened in fact if the church management had accepted the offer from SOURCE which they did not.

The new technology does away with all the FAULTS of the Church of Scientology and is ready to be delivered and simply tailored to the new conditions on Earth in the 21st Century.

It is fully available including all advanced rundowns and a new 'Bridge' as of now at the new Flag Landbase at Birega Haus in Central Germany.

This means that the scientologists who want to avail themselves of this new technology will have a new place to visit and populate. Like Clearwater once in deep sleep also the village of Biere in Germany and Sachsen Anhalt will come to life for sure.

The website has been used as a fast communication medium but will soon be fully done and provide all data.

Looking forward to meet you in no time!

With love,
Caspar de Rijk
